

Grenada Standard Distribution Box

AI Overview

A Grenada Standard Distribution Box is an electrical enclosure designed to house circuit breakers and wiring, compliant with local safety standards and available in various configurations for residential and commercial use.

Overview A standard distribution box in Grenada is used to safely organize and protect electrical circuits. These boxes are designed to meet Grenada Bureau of Standards (GDBS) regulations, which define technical requirements for size, design, performance, labeling, and safety to ensure reliable and safe electrical installations. Compliance with these standards is essential for both residential and commercial applications.

Typical Features

- Module Capacity: Commonly available in 8-module configurations, suitable for small to medium installations.
- Material: Flame-retardant, impact-resistant plastic or metal options are available, with some models offering IP65 waterproof protection for outdoor use.
- Installation: Surface-mounted or flush-mounted options, with complete installation kits including screws, anchors, and cable entries.
- Monitoring: Transparent windows allow easy visual inspection of breaker status.
- Neutral and Earth Connections: Some boxes may require additional terminal blocks for separate neutral (N) and protective earth (PE) connections.

Compliance and Standards The Grenada Bureau of Standards oversees the development and promotion of technical standards for electrical products, including distribution boxes. These standards ensure that products meet safety, quality, and environmental requirements. When selecting a distribution box, it is important to verify that it conforms to local compulsory standards to guarantee safe operation.

Suppliers and Availability Distribution boxes can be sourced from local distributors and suppliers in Grenada. Options include:

- Surface-mounted 8-module boxes for residential or light commercial use.
- Professional and explosion-proof metal boxes for industrial applications, available through specialized suppliers.
- Power distribution units (PDUs...
