

Price of Small Electrical Distribution Boxes

AI Overview

Small electrical distribution boxes typically range from $20 to $200 for standard indoor units, with weatherproof or modular outdoor boxes costing more depending on size and features.

Typical Price Ranges

Indoor small distribution boxes (1–8 modules, IP20–IP65): Prices generally start around $20–$50 for basic single-phase units and can go up to $100–$150 for larger or modular configurations with multiple circuits.

Weatherproof outdoor boxes (IP66/IP67, small sizes 1–4 modules): These units are more expensive due to durability and protection against moisture and dust, typically ranging from $50–$200 depending on size and material.

Empty enclosures with mounting plates for small installations: Prices for compact boxes (e.g., 300 x 150 x 170 mm) are around $60–$100, while slightly larger boxes (300 x 300 x 170 mm) can cost $70–$120.

Factors Affecting Price

Material and Build Quality: Plastic boxes are cheaper, while metal or reinforced enclosures cost more. Weatherproofing adds to the price.

Number of Modules/Circuits: More modules or higher amperage capacity increases cost. Small residential boxes usually have 1–8 modules.

IP Rating: Indoor boxes (IP20–IP44) are less expensive than outdoor-rated boxes (IP65–IP67).

Additional Features: Smart monitoring, surge protection, or modular expansion options can increase the price.

Brand and Certification: IEC-certified or European brands may cost 15–30% more than generic or Chinese equivalents.

Example Pricing from Manufacturers

Hensel Cable Junction Boxes IP66/67: Small outdoor boxes (93 x 93 x 62 mm) range from $15–$25, while larger units (155 x 210 x 92 mm) can cost $70–$120.

Empty Boxes IP65: Size 1 (300 x 150 x 170 mm) around $70, Size 2 (300 x 300 x 170 mm) around $85.

Commercial modular units with smart features or multiple circuits can exceed $200 depending on specifications.
