

Surplus fiber optic cable

AI Overview

Surplus fiber optic cables are unused, high-quality cables sold at discounted prices, offering 20%–60% savings over conventional sources. What is Surplus Fiber Optic Cable? Surplus fiber optic cable refers to new, unused fiber cables that have never been installed but may have been stored in warehouses for some time. These cables are typically excess inventory from manufacturers, distributors, or project overstock, and they are carefully inspected to ensure quality and performance equivalent to new cables. Surplus fiber can include a wide range of types, such as single-mode, multi-mode, indoor, outdoor, armored, hybrid, and tactical fiber.

Advantages of Buying Surplus Fiber

- Cost Savings: Surplus fiber optic cables often provide 20%–60% savings compared to standard retail or distributor pricing.
- High Quality: Suppliers guarantee that the cables are first-quality, new, and unused, with performance matching standard specifications.
- Variety: Available in bulk reels, custom lengths, and various configurations, including LC, SC, ST connectors, and armored or outdoor-rated cables.
- Fast Shipping: Many suppliers offer quick delivery, sometimes within two days, and can ship from multiple locations to reduce costs.
- Trade-In Options: Some vendors allow businesses to trade in surplus inventory for credit toward needed parts.

Common Suppliers

- Wire Direct: Offers centrally located surplus fiber in Peoria, Illinois, with a 90-day guarantee and savings on bulk purchases.
- Discount Fiber: Buys and sells surplus fiber from manufacturers, distributors, and end users, including indoor/outdoor, hybrid, and tactical fiber.
- Surplus Select: Provides new and used OEM fiber optic cables, assemblies, and custom-terminated lengths with price matching and trade-in credit.
- Remee Wire and Cable: Offers REMnant™ surplus fiber and copper cables with top-quality assurance and various configurations.
- American Tech Supply: Maintains indoor-stored surplus bulk fiber with fast delivery and flexible cut options.
