

Where can I get a distribution box made

AI Overview

You can get a distribution box made through specialized manufacturers offering custom or standard solutions, such as J&HW Group, GEYA, E-abel, and VIOX Electric.

Custom Distribution Box Manufacturers

J&HW Group: Offers fully custom power distribution boxes. You can submit your design or requirements, and they provide a free design and deliver a high-quality prototype in about 15 days. Their in-house production of components like sockets, wires, and casings ensures cost efficiency and precise customization for your project needs.

GEYA: Provides distribution boxes suitable for residential solar systems and industrial applications. They offer IP65-rated enclosures, high-quality ABS materials, and full customization options. GEYA products are certified by UL, CSA, TUV, and CE, and they handle all processes in-house, from design to testing.

E-abel: Specializes in high-performance distribution boxes for residential, commercial, and industrial projects. They follow a detailed manufacturing process including CAD design, material preparation, CNC cutting, forming, and surface treatment. E-abel ensures quality, safety, and durability tailored to your specifications.

Standard and Industrial Distribution Boxes

VIOX Electric: Offers stainless steel distribution boxes in grades 201, 304, and 316. Their products are designed for durability, corrosion resistance, and high IP ratings. VIOX boxes feature modular components, quick-access panels, and flame-retardant materials, making them suitable for harsh environments and outdoor applications.

Direct Industry Suppliers: You can browse a wide range of distribution enclosures and boxes from brands like RITTAL, BOPLA, and ROSE. Options include ABS or polycarbonate enclosures, IP65-IP67 protection, and modular designs for industrial or mechanical engineering applications.

How to Choose

Determine your requirements: Consider voltage, current, number of circuits, IP rating, and material (ABS, polycarbonate, or stainless steel).

Decide between custom or standard: Custom box...
